

Sept 25 Mini-Camp: Chemistry Lab / Maker Lab

Our campers will engage in chemistry activities, experiments, and engineering projects designed to practice the skills of observation, testing hypotheses, problem solving, multi-step processes – all in the target language.

Depending on the age group, campers will variously make a lever project, work with paper and other tools, experiment with different slime recipes, and test different kinds of disappearing ink they make themselves, in order to write and reveal secret messages and drawings!

Campers will of course play outdoor games and do other physical activities to get them moving and breathing fresh air! And as always, they will engage in language-building activities according to their level.

Key vocabulary in French, Spanish, and Mandarin includes the scientific process, process language, sequencing language, and language they will use while making their projects.

You will receive a vocabulary and fact sheet with images and concepts they engaged with at camp.
